Report on Lecture 2 of Alumni Lecture Series

The Department of Chemistry, University of Lucknow organized the second lecture of the Alumni Lecture Series on October 14, 2022. The speaker was Prof. Ashish Kumar Tiwari of the Chemistry Department, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi. He completed his Ph.D. from the Department of Chemistry, Lucknow University in the year 2000. To start the proceedings, Head of the Department Prof. Anil Mishra welcomed the guests. Mementoes were presented to the Speaker and Chief Guest by Dr. Saurabh Kumar Singh and Dr. Sanjay Kumar Gautam respectively. This was followed by address by Prof. Rajeev Pandey, Dean Research. In his address Prof. Pandey emphasized the importance of positive thoughts.

Thereafter the speaker was introduced by Dr. Sunil Kumar Rai. Dr. Rai himself has done his Ph.D. under Prof. Tiwari. The topic of today's lecture was The world of Non-covalent Chemistry: Predominant to Covalent Traits which focused on the main interactions and bonds in Chemistry. He explained how these interactions play an important role in drug action and metabolism.

The program concluded by a vote of thanks proposed by Dr. Shashi Bala. The special guest was Dr. Kamlakar Awasthi who himself is and alumni of the Department of Chemistry, University of Lucknow. He did his M.Sc. in 1972. The program was attended by all faculty members and Ph.D. students.
