

Programme Objectives of Sanskrit Ph.D Course Work

The objective of this Programme

- to promote research and interest in Indian knowledge systems with emphasis on manuscripts. The objective is not only to know about the existing information and practices about manuscripts but also to bring to light relatively unknown knowledge. The Programme tries to develop and incorporate these insights into its activities.
- To make the students develop a comprehensive idea about Sanskrit language, literature, and Philosophy.
- To encourage the students to take up inter-disciplinary studies relating to the field of Sanskrit.
- To provide adequate knowledge to decode, interpret, understand and preserve the ancient Sanskrit manuscripts.
- To impart skills in translation, transliteration and such other avenues that facilitate dissemination of knowledge contained in ancient Sanskrit texts for the benefit of the entire humanity in the global context.
- To enhance skilled human resource in the field of Sanskrit.
- To keep pace with the development in other related disciplines and look out for applications of Sanskrit in the possible areas.
- To provide training required for undertaking research in Sanskrit and applied fields.
- To prepare scholars for undertaking higher responsibilities in preserving, promoting and propagating Sanskrit education and research.
